Description of Property and Justification: (Please attach map and photo)

St. Paul's Church remains unchanged from the 1980s MHT survey. The first Methodist church was founded in Beaver Dam in 1799, but a church was not built until the middle of the 19th century. During the late 19th and early 20th centuries, Ingleside supported two Methodist churches, one for whites and the other for African-Americans. The African-American church was demolished in 1905.

At present, St. Paul's has been clad in vinyl siding and lacks integrity of materials. St. Paul's U.M. Church is not eligible for inclusion in the NRHP under Criterion C (architecture). Research under Criteria A (events) and B (people) did not identify either as significant in the history of the United States or Maryland. Criterion D was not investigated for this study.

~~The NRHP boundary for St. Paul's U.M. Church is confined to the parcel shown on Queen Anne's County Tax Map 31, Parcel 81.~~

This small frame church traces its history back to 1868, when St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church South was organized by Rev. Lester Dulaney. The following year, in 1869, a lot of land was deeded to the church by Benjamin Wilson, Jr. It is unclear when the first church was erected, but it seems likely that the present structure dates to the turn of the century, replacing an earlier building.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

St. Paul's United Methodist Church is located on the east side of Maryland Route 19 on the northern edge of Ingleside.

This frame temple form church is rectangular in plan with a square bell tower projecting from the southwest corner of the building. It is oriented on an east-west axis with the altar at the east end and a large two story parish hall joined to the southeast corner of the east gable, immediately adjacent to a semi-octagonal apse projecting from the center of the gable.

The principal entrance is a double door in the west wall of the bell tower, facing the Ingleside-Barclay Road. A large double stained glass window with a Gothic arch is the only opening in the west gable of the church. Three arched stained glass windows are ranged along the north and south facades, and a semi-octagonal apse on the east gable is pierced by small stained glass windows on two sides. The bell tower is relatively simple. There is a single small stained glass window on the south wall, lighting the vestibule, and a simple but decorative entrance porch on the west wall. The roof of the bell tower is a pyramid-on-hip above four arched windows that mark the location of the bell. The building has recently been covered with aluminum siding.

The double entrance doors open into a small plain vestibule, with a second set of double doors opening into the sanctuary. The interior is arranged with two banks of angled pews flanking a center aisle. The altar is centered on the east gable in front of the apse. A low railing projects in front of the reading podium. The choir is seated to the left, the organ is to the right. A door to the right of the organ opens into the parish hall. The interior is decorated in relatively simple taste. The architrave trim is typical of the late 19th and early 20th century.
